

On the descent, I intentionally triggered a small wind pocket in one of the chutes in the cliffs near the trail at 8700 ft. I included a video. It was D1 and about 5 inches deep at the crown. I think just a good reminder that even in the trees, the tops of those chutes get wind loaded and can definitely slide. Photo: H. Darby

Advisory Region Northern Gallatin Longitude -111.00W Latitude 45.44N Avalanche Details: Kicking wind slabs on Blackmore Trail Forecast link: GNFAC Avalanche Forecast for Fri Dec 2, 2022 Northern Gallatin, 2022-11-28